- (c) The set will be shaken 10 times by hands and thereafter the upper sieves will be separated from the set. Out of the contents in the upper sieves, seeds of rape and mustard and that of Jamba (Sohan) if any, will be sorted. The rest of the contents if any, in the sieves will be treated as dirt.
- (d) Sieves No. 2 from the above then will be separated from the set and that will be shaken 10 times in such a way that nothing goes out of the set. Remaining contents in this sieves will then be taken in No. 3 from above. Sieves No. 3 from above will be taken out and will be shaken 10 times and all that remains in that sieves will be capsized in sieves No. 4 from above. This sieves No. 4 will then be shaken 10 times and contents therein will be taken on the tin plate.
- (e) The contents in sieves No. 5 from above will be included in Rabba and the contents in the last hollow pit will be included in dirt.
- (f) Jamba, Rabba and dirt so assorted will be weighed and the different weights will be divided by five for making the same on percentage basis. This result will be noted down.
- (g) Out of the sample spread over on the tin plate under clause (d) above, the contents will be taken by a shovel like small spoon, 50 grams shall be taken in this way and will be poured in sieves referred to in Bye-law 99B for ascertaining bold and small seeds. The sieves shall be sifted 100 times and then will be separated from the hollow pit upon which the same is adjusted. There will be no touch to the lower portion of the sieves and the seeds in the hollow pit came out by sifting will be treated as small referred to in Bye-law 95(a). These small seeds will be weighed and the weight so ascertained will be doubled for making it on percentage basis. This double weight will be subtracted from 100 and the balance will be treated as bold seeds referred to in Bye-law 95(a).

- (h) Small and bold seeds so assorted will again be mixed in the sample on the tin plate from which the weight of 50 grams was taken.
- (i) From the tin plate 100 grams weight contents will be taken from all sides and from the middle by means of a shovel like small spoon and will be poured in set referred to in clause (c) above. The contents will be sifted and sorted according to the procedure laid down in clause (c), (d) and (e) above, Jamba, Rabba and dirt so sorted will be weighed and noted under the result already noted under clause (f) above.
- (j) The remaining contents in sieves No. 4 from above shall again be spread over on through a scoop on the tin plate and out of such spreading 25 grams will be taken by using spoon from all sides and from middle. This sample of 25 grams will be cleaned by hand and dirt, rabba, green seed jamba etc. shall be sorted. All these impurities under refraction will be weighed separately and the weight will be multiplied by four. This four times weight will again be noted under the results already written under clauses (f) and (i) above.
- (k) The results of refraction ascertained under the above clauses (f), (i) and (j) above will be added and the same will be the result of impurities under refraction on percentage basis. All calculations will be made on such percentage and allowances will be payable accordingly".

XIII. After Bye-law 160, the following new Bye-law 160A shall be added, namely :—

"160A. After the sample being brought in the Chamber the party claiming 'ON' and/or 'OFF' allowances if desirous to withdraw his claim may do so by informing the Chamber in writing. On receipt of such information the opposite party will be informed and if wants to have the refraction done then he shall have to inform the Chamber in writing and shall have to deposit the refraction fees within 24 hours from the communication received from the Chamber. The sample for refraction will be the same as is already with the Chamber. If the opposite party fails to give any reply or fails to deposit the fees, the sample will be removed".

XIV. After Bye-law 162, the following new Bye-laws shall be added, namely :—

"162A. The result of refraction and analysis will be sent to the parties in writing and the parties concerned with the delivery of goods will make payments for the allowances amongst themselves.

162C. Subject to the provisions of Bye-law 152 the sales-tax will be chargeable on the amount of the bill for the goods weighed and the amount for 'ON' allowances. The amount for 'OFF' allowances shall be deducted from the bill for the purpose of sales-tax."
